

Dr. William Hora Armstrong

(1848-1884)

William H. Armstrong was Mary Stevens' brother; and like his sister, he was born in Alabama and there he attended college. He then studied in the Department of Medicine of the University of Louisiana (now called Tulane University School of Medicine) and after graduation he moved to Dallas where he resided with his parents, Eliza and Samuel Armstrong. He practiced as physician and, like his nearby brother-in-law, Dr. John H. Stevens, Dr. Armstrong was an elected leader in the local Democratic Party. He neither married nor had children.
